The Acadian car line name was used solely in Canada. The Canso name refers to an upscale trim level available on the Acadian line.

The story of the Canadian exclusive Acadian series is a bit complicated. The factors leading up to the creation of this car trace back many years. For years Canadian Pontiacs were hybrid cars created on the economy plan in response to some tricky pricing parameters in the low to medium priced car market.

Canadian built Pontiacs used Pontiac body and interior styling applied to Chevrolet chassis and drivetrains.
